MRS. ELLA SWEETSER

The community was saddened on Wednesday evening, December 25, by the passing of Mrs. Ella Sweetser at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Albert Russ, South Woodstock. Although her health had been poor for more than a year the end came after an illness of about a month.

Mrs. Sweetser was born in Woodstock 81 years ago, the daughter of Samuel and Sabra Dacey Swan.

Surviving besides the daughter with whom she made her home are a son Frank Sweetner of Bryant Pond, six grandchildren, five great grand children, one niece and two nephews. She was a member of the Eastern Star Bryant Pond and the Methodist Church.

Services were held from the Andrews Funeral Parlor Friday afternoon at 2 oclock. Words of comfort were spoken by Rev Alton Verrill. The body was placed in the Tomb at Bryant Pond. Burial will be in the spring beside her late husband.

The Past Year In Review

The past year leaves changes for the better or worse as all years do. The list given here is of course far from complete, as any such chronicle is compiled at short range before many events can be seen in their true value. The re-opening of the Stowell-MacGregor mill property has been of value, with a hope of increased business there. The Degree Master, Wendall A. Ring, Skillington mill is still idle but a favorable comment. The expense of lively activity continues at the this innovation was borne by the Newton and Tebbets' West Bethel business people of this village, the mill. During the year the town lost funds being collected by F. Perley Rowe's store, which closed its doors | Flint of the Chamber of Commerce. Mrs. Myrtle Richardson continues March 31 after 75 years of good service to this vicinity. Erection of hoped that such holiday decorathe Gould Academy field house and other building and rebuilding has furnished employment to many. Altogether the community has fared well in 1940, with grounds for good hopes in the future.

BETHEL'S HOLIDAY LIGHTS PLEASING

The colored lights which were placed over Main street early in December have aroused much With this good beginning it is tion may become a permanent custom. This fund also supplied the beautifully decorated tree at the corner of Main and Railroad streets.

Other attractive decorations included the tree of the Lions Club at the head of Main street in its usual location, a tree at the Methodist church, and colored lights at the Congregational church. Several stores and homes added to the gala appearance,

With this initial installation of street decorations there was no circuit available for the lights so it was necessary to leave the bulbs Clarence Rolfe uninjured when burning day and night. This of course resulted in more burned out bulbs than would have occurred otherwise, but the company did well to take care of the many replacements.

SCOTT A. COOLIDGE

The community was shocked on Friday to learn of the death of Scott A. Coolldge, one of Unton's highly respected citizens.

Scott A. Coolidge, the son of the late Alva and Katherine Coolidge. was born in Upton, Maine, June 5, Jan. 23. Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln 1878. He was educated at Hebron Academy and Shaw's Business College. He became time keeper for the Great Northern Paper Company at Millinocket. Later he went to Berlin, N. H., as shipping clerk at the Cascade Mill. On October 17, 1907, he was united in marriage Annie Mae Pinette, Jaughter of the late Charles and Bridget Pinnette of Berlin, New Hampshire For twenty-two years he was care taker and chauffeur for A L. Salt former president of the Graybar Electric Company. In 1937 he returned to his native town where he has since been residing

He was a member of the Masonic Lodge, the I. O. O. F., the Grange. and Maccabees.

Mr. Coolidge was a man of jove al, happy disposition, with a smiland a cheery greeting for everyone He endeared himself to all and was a general favorite. His untimely death is a blow to his family and friends.

Funeral services were held Monday at two o'clock from the Upton Union Church with the Reverend Duke officiating at the scremony. The committal service was by the Masonic Lodge of Bethel. The bearers, all of them Masons, were Edward Warren, Howard Douglass, True Durkee, Leroy Bragg, Cleveland West, and Bert Brawn. Mrs. Owen Thurston was the organist, and singing was by Mrs. Readio. The church was filled with relatives and friends who came to pay a last tribute of love Apr. 11. Dr. Frank E. Hanscom and respect. The many beautiful flowers attest the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

G. A. Basketball Season Starts

On Friday, January 3, Gould Academy will open its 1941 season against a strong Alumni quintet. The team this year is an inexperienced group and the setback caused by the forced vacation due to the epidemic of measles, has also handicapped the team. The loss of four star players in Wentzel, Palmer, Tucker and Swan from last year's League Champions have left some big holes in the lineup to fill

The team resumed practice last Monday and will be working hard to get back into shape again after the long "lay-off." The postponed games with the Alumni and Norway High will both be worked into the schedule so no games will be

The Alumni game on Friday will be one of the best games of the season as many former Gould stars are at home for the holidays and a strong team of past performance will be on hand to show their wares. Those who worked in starting positions last night were Ed Robertson, Bob Browne, Robert King, Don Stanley, and Charles Smith. Other members of the past will be on hand Friday to topple their Alma Mater if possible.

Preserving Paintbrushes. QUESTION: What steps should be taken to preserve and keep in good condition paintbrushes, after they have been used? How is it possible to get out the color from a brush before starting to use it in a different color? Or should the brushes be kept separately for each Answer: When a job is finished, clean the brush by wiping the excess paint off on the side of the can. rinse thoroughly in turpentine, and then in three changes of benzine or clear gasoline, being extremely coreful of fire when doing so. Follow by shaking out and hanging out to dry. If a brush has been thoroughly cleaned, it can be used for another color, although to be on the safe side it is better to have a brush for each color. To avoid difficulty in cleaning brushes, never dip the brush so deeply that paint will get under the ferrule.

Stained Driveway.

Question: I would like some information on how to clean our concrete driveway. There are rust stains, automobile oil and grease

Answer: For rust removal, dissolve one part sodium citrate in six parts of water and add six parts of commercial glycerine. Mix a portion of this with enough powdered whiting or chalk to form a paste, and spread on in a thick coat. When dry, replace with fresh paste, or moisten with the remaining liquid. A week or more may be required to remove the stain.

Remove fresh oil stains by covering them with an inch or two of dry portland cement. For old stains wash with a solution of two pounds of trisodium phosphate to the gallon of hot water. After cleaning, remove all traces of the solution by rinsing with clear water.

Copper Porch Screens.

Question: Evidently the wire on the porch screens had not been i from stains. I am advised to go! spar varnish, one of linseed oil and one part of turpentine. Clean the woodwork with ammonia and water. Paint with aluminum paint, then two coats of white paint. Would this be your method? Must the ammonia and water be rinsed off?

Answer: Before varnishing the screens, be sure they are free of dust and grease. For washing the woodwork, use a half-cup of ammonia in a quart of water, and rinse thoroughly with plenty of clear water. The coat of aluminum paint will not be necessary. Whatever remains of the stain will not "bleed" through the new paint.

Soot in Chimney.

Question: I have a sloped roof and find it difficult to clean out my chimney. Is there any chemical on the market which I can use to burn out the soot from the chimney?

Answer: Soot removal compounds can be purchased at plumbers' shops or heating supply houses. However, for best results the chimney should be cleaned by hand. In cleaning out a chimney, where the roof is sloping, it is best to build a platform. One end of the platform is made without legs or supports, which rests on the roof; the other end is made with legs of the proper length, and is placed against the chimney. This arrangement will give you good footing.

Crack Filler.

Question: In kitchen and bathroom there is a separation caused by the failure of the material at the point where the tiling meets the floor. How should this be filled?

Answer: If the floor is also tile, small cracks can be filled with a cement intended for tile work, to be had at a hardware or paint store, and large cracks with a paste made of portland cement and water. If the floor is wood, fill the cracks with caulking compound.

allow for "boiling up." The inside surface should be smooth, because rough spots may cause candies to. stick and burn. Measuring cups

-use standard measuring cups for successful results; accurate measurements are essential.

Spoons and spatulas - wooden spoons are desirable for candy making because they do not become uncomfortably hot, nor does the wooden spoon handle cut into one's hand during beating. Use standard tablespoons and teaspoons for measuring. A medium-sized spatula is a help in scraping candy from kettles, and lifting candy from the pan. Baking sheets, platters and pansordinary cookie sheets provide a good surface for pouring hard candies; large platters may be used for taffy, which is to be taken out and pulled, or for fondant which is to be

Made Rather Bad Guess In Dark of the Night

Podkins had been walking about all day looking for lodgings. When darkness came he was still searching. At last he noticed a card in a window. "Good evening," he said to the woman who appeared at the door in answer to his knock. "I'm here in reference to the card in your window."

"Oh, yes! How many might you want, sir?'

"Only one. You see, I've had a row with my landlady-" "But you're not going to pelt her with it, are you, sir?" 'Pelt her with a room?"

"Rocm? I've got no rooms. The card says 'New-Laid Eggs.' "

"You heard the first time. You can drop the pose of deafness-or is it dumbness?"

Her voice sank. Little gloved hands were locked in her lap. "Grove," Allegra said, "has told me everything."

I kept my face. "I see."

"Grove," she said, "is in love with Ione Ferriter." That opened up new avenues of surmise. I did not turn toward them.

I askcd: "And you don't like it?"

"It, or her. She's older." "That." I said, "isn't necessarily fatal. So was Mrs. Browning and Mrs. Disraeli and Mrs. Mary of Scotland and Mrs. Oedipus and-"

Allegra locked at me hard and then smiled.

"All right, Admiral Crichton, Find out who killed that man." "Yes, ma'am," I told her, "It's as good as done."

She held out her hand toward me. Then she turned.

Neither of us knew how long Miss Agatha had been on the threshold. Nothing in her face gave us a clue. She rolled into the room and spoke crisply: "It's bad enough to be a refuge for all my family's grief-smitten, without posing as aunt to the New York City police. Captain Shannon has been telephoning. Lyon Ferriter escaped from the Babylon last night."

"How long," I asked suddenly, 'did he stay after I left?"

There was a glitter in her eyes. "About a quarter-hour," she informed me, "and I'd be quite content, David, if you'd confine your criminal investigations for the present to my own ancestry." "Yes, Miss Paget," I said with meekness that made her chuckle.

I know now she had heard at least the conclusion of my talk with her niece. She turned to Allegra. "Lunch in a half-hour, my dear," Agatha said, and Allegra left the room. The old lady started to follow and paused: "David," said she, "I hope your head is stronger than I've any reason to think it is." "I hope it's stronger than I think it is," I answered. She lingered an instant and then nodded. "Perhaps," she comforted, "it's better than either of us thinks," and trundled herself away.

The door opened. Allegra looked in. "A message from Miss Paget," she said with mock gravity. "There is an extra place at the table this noon that she wishes you would occupy. Mr. Everett Ferriter is indisposed again."

CHAPTER IX

Linen's frosty glow, the cool glitter of silver and china were like friends long absent. They lifted my morale. I caught Allegra's glance as Lyon helped her into the chair beside his, and grinned. I sat between Ione and Miss Agatha with Ferriter opposite, on her right hand, and I selected the bouillen spoon boldly, because I thought they might worder if I could.

I found myself disliking the scent Ione wore and her as well, for no clear reason other than that I cbjected to sultry brunettes.

My neighbor said in her husky voice:

"I haven't thanked you, Mr. Mallory, for what you did that-awful I wendered if it were only the shock of that evening that harried her new. "Thank me." I asked, "for treating you rough?" "Exactly. I needed it. I don't sister. "She really doesn't. She wintered with me in Alaska, but that, after all, isn't preparation for finding-" He checked himself and turned to Miss Agatha with an apologetic movement of his hands.

"I beg parden. There is no excuse for dragging-"

"Nonsetse," the old lady cut in. "My dear man, closets are the worst possible places for skeletons. It's my Uncle Stanley's consent, they far more " bolesome to leave them out in the Et If you can stand it." "We have to," he said a little grimly. "Until the police get the idea that people who weren't there could not have done it."

I had wished, a half-hour earlier. that I might be included among Miss something that would clear the Fer- paget's guests. Now I was unhappy. I knew too much and suspected too much more. I was tense and saw pertents in actions outwardly "One doesn't love a person for innocent. For a moment, I had thought lene's seizure had concealed terror. H. W. Prentis, Jr., President, Armstrong Cork Company: "American industry has repeatedly pledged its wholehearted support to the national defense program. It has moved swiftly to meet all the demands that have been made by the government to date. But industry could do more if we are, in the opinion of government, actually faced with emergency war production. How fast industry diverts its efforts from production for normal needs to armament, depends upon how acriously government regards the immediate future. Whether production for Great Britain or production for our own defense is the more important, is for government to decide."

J. Howard Pew, President, Sun (ill Company: "Planning as applied to the other fellow has always been tolerated in fact, among those groups who do the planning for the other fellow, planning has been downright popular There is no surer way of ruining a man than for someone clas to plan out his life. There is no surer way of ruining a nation than for the government to plan for the lives and the nctivities of its people, for a nation ter at Freeport can be no greater help than are its people"

Paul G. Hoffman Precident. Studebaker Corporation: "You can't conscript either brains or enthuslasm. What is there that leads us to believe that the methods we have found best in pracetime will not also be best in an emergency? Let's stay with the most efficient method we know."

AMERICAN LEGION UXILIARY MEWS

JACKSON—SILVER POST & UNIT—NO. 68

The American Legion Brigade, sponsored by the Jackson-Silver Post, A. L. and drilling in West Paris is steadily growing, now having over 80 members. After the 100 mark is reached all additional signers will be placed on the waiting list. Over 70 enthusiastic men took the floor to drill last Thursday, and as interested visitors there were ten Legionnaires from Buckfield who will start a brigade in their town if the people so demand. Jan. 14 there will be a benefit show at the West Paris Grange Hall for the Home Guards, with Shaw's Trio of Brunswick, and WCOU radio fame. The special attraction committee is Emil Heikkinen, Roy Dyment, Maynard Chase, and Vernon Smith.

January is Legislature month on the Legion's calendar and our National Executive Committee approves a 4-point program. National preparedness and its importance to America was the keynote of the meeting held in Indianapolis Nov. 21-22.

Representing the membership, members of the committee set before the American Legion as a 1941 program:

1. National Defense.

- 2. Government protection for World War widows and orphans. 3. Civil Service veterans preference and employment.
- 4. Americanization, including further restriction of immigration; continuation of the Dies Committee, and increasing of the personnel of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

New AAA' Alabama Plan' Promotes Soil Betterment

Crop Payments Based on Land Improvement; Roosevelt Suggests U.S. 'Loan' War Material to England.

Nat'l Farm and Home

WASHINGTON.-You may have heard about the "Alabama plan" of is an attempt of reversing the policy of paying farmers for "not doing" and rewarding them for "doing." I find that the department of agriculture doesn't go that far. Officials there describe it rather, as paying farmers less for "not doing" but assuring them benefits for taking part in a constructive program. This is the way one member of the Triple A tells the story: Down in Alabama they're trying, on a state-wide basis, an experiment in balanced farming that may eventually be a pattern for farm programs in other areas. It's known as the "Alabama Plan" and it's simply a plan based on good farming practices, which over a five-year period, provides for building up the soil and otherwise improving the individual farm to the point where it becomes a productive unit,

The Alabama plan is not complicated. It is part of the AAA farm farmers will receive conservation payments for planting within their acreage allotments of special crops, such as cotton, tobacco, peanuts, wheat, and potatoes. However, under the so-called Alabama Plan, in operation for the first time in 1941, full payments made to Alabama farmers will be contingent upon carrying out of certain good farming practices.

Planned Conservation.

The difference between the Alabama Plan and the general conservation program is about the difference between going into a cafeteria and picking out a dish or two that you especially like and sitting down to a well-balanced meal. Heretofore, farmers in Alabama and other states have had available to them certain practices which they could use to earn the payments available under the farm program. They have used many of these but naturally they have not always picked out the best combination of practices for the land. That was the cafeteria method of soil conservation. Under the Alabama Plan, the conservation program worked out for each farm represents a balanced type of farming. That's the well-planned meal type of conservation.

Not only is the conservation well planned for each year, but it is worked out for five years in advance.

The Alabama Plan, like most parts of the farm program, came from suggestions from farmers themselves who have observed the operation of the farm program and made suggestions on it from time to time. Alabama farmers have felt the need for more planning and more balance in their conservation work and the AAA program has been adapted to make it possible for this state-wide experiment in conservation to be undertaken beginning in 1941.

Requirements of Plan.

Here's what the Alabama farmer has to do to svoid deductions in his conservation payments for 1941:

1. Grow erosion-resisting crops each year on an acreage equal to at least 25 per cent of his cropland. 2. Properly terrace all cropland In the farm having a slope in excess of 2 per cent.

3. Establish or maintain perennial soll-conserving crops on at least one acre for each 15 acres of cropland. LEstablish or maintain permanent (Released by Western Newspaper Union.) | pasture on at least one acre for each 15 acres of cropland.

Requirement No. 1 has to be carthe Triple A which some have said | ried out each year, of course, but numbers 2, 3, and 4 are to be done over a five-year period. One-fifth of the requirements under points 2, 3, and 4 must be carried out each year.

Deductions in the farmer's conservation payments will be made on the basis of 5 per cent of the payment for each 10 per cent by which he fails to carry out the 1941 require-

The Alabama Plan is resulting in more co-operation among farmers in many cases. For example, operators of small farms are not able to maintain heavy equipment required in terracing. However, groups of farmers can form an association to buy this equipment, and can pay their share on the basis of the amount of time they use it.

President Announces 'Loaned' Aid to Britain

It was late as I hurried across the paved space in front of the exprogram. It carries further than ecutive offices. The waiting room ever before the conservation work was jammed. Overcoats were piled done under the AAA program. As high on the huge mahogany table under previous AAA programs, presented to the President by the Philippine General Aguinaldo.

We were soon crowding through the inner waiting room and across the hall and into the President's oval office. The moment I had wormed my way forward and looked at the President, I was sure he had something important to say. He wasn't laughing and chatting with the men pushed close around his deck. He looked very serious.

Finally the last reporter had come in. The President began to speak. He spoke slowly, deliberately; informally but seriously, announcing to the very verge of war. They his long-awaited plan for lending or could hardly complain if London what has become of the bit her lifts to Britain. Because I had to broadcast almost immediately afterward I was kept busy taking notes, but as I wrote down the words that would be hisnothing was real around me.

It couldn't be that the other side of the world was burning up—that proud nation which claimed to rule the Seven Seas was begging for help-that I was actually writing down on a piece of copy paper a gigantic plan to bring that help. It was simply too big to grasp. How could any one human being hope to sit down and draw up a scheme that involved these millions of people, that must answer the criss cross, conflicting hopes, beliefs, demands and desires of half the globe?

. . my pencil kept on forming words and suddenly I saw they were writing down a simple little anecdote about a lot of men in a smoking car making bets.

This seemed still more unreal but it is the President's way of trying to illustrate frightfully complicated things with very simple, everyday experiences. He told how, when he was the young assistant secretary of the navy back in 1914, war in Europe was suddenly declared and he was hurrying back to Washington.

And then he went on describing his plan for lending or leasing imno notes before him but it was plain he had spent plenty of thought on a pair of these protectors. A half his plan, that it was the result of study and thought.

Whatever the merits of the plan may be, its one merit seemed to be this: it stilled for a while at least, something that came very near hysteria in Washington and what might have been hysteria in England, too. INVASION:

Threat Once More

The Pope's appeal for a Christ mas Armistice having failed, both Germany and England blaming each other for its non-acceptance, the Yuletide abroad was punctuated by the dropping of Christmas tree ornaments of an ugly and explosive character.

In London*it was reported that several Christmas carol parties were wiped out in a hail of bombs from Heinkels and Junkers planes, while the Reich countered with the report that the British had bombed a Berlin cathedral just a night or two before the Holy Day.

Prime Minister Churchill, talking to Commons on the state of the war. took occasion to warn the British public that he considers the threat of German invasion far from over, in fact that he believes Hitler's forces may try to come over the Channel any dark night.

England is ready for the invader, the beaches are well manned, but he urged watchfulness in the extreme. There were disquicting repound naval shells and receiving no ports that Britain was having some labor trouble in defense factories. and Bevin, also speaking in Commons, laid this to Communist netivity.

However, observers on this side of the water wondered if perhaps Bevin were not glossing over an ugly amount of disgruntled resistance to work under halls of bombs, while the army is sitting peacefully and safe on the beaches awaiting an invasion that is not taking place.

It's said to be a British joke: "the man is a coward, he quit his factory job and joined the army."

Others in the U.S. wondered how much of Churchill's warnings and fears might not be aimed at this country, to spur the nation on to which resulted in additional power that during November industrial pro- still more and more vigorous aid to England,

The defense drive, in short, has bogged down. The optimistic estimates of last summer are not being realized. For example, a short time ago it was forecast that soon after the first of the year we would be producing 1,000 military airplanes monthly. But, Defense Commissioner Knudson now announces that the real figure will be 30 per cent lower-700 planes per month. That is the situation in practically all defense lines.

What are the main causes of the defense bottlenecks? You can find just about any answer to that question that suits you. The explanations offered in Washington seem to fall into the following categor-

First, some circles believe that business still has fears of what this Administration may do-that it is worried about new crackdowns and radical experiments. In addition, business works under legislative, tax and regulatory handicaps which did not exist in 1917.

Second, the President is being criticized for his failure to appoint a chief of the Defense Commission, with full powers. That, it is said, is the only way to escape division of responsibility, overlapping of activities, and wasted effort. Some criticism of this kind is coming from circles which generally are strong for the New Deal.

Third, it is has been said that neither labor nor industry as yet fully realizes the gravity of the situation, or is as yet ready to make the necessary sacrifices. Mr Knudson indicated that in a recent statement. The tremendous enthusiasm for total defense which appeared here when France fell has apparently abated to a considerable extent.

Fourth, a number of important industrialists, such as Mr. Sloan of General Motors, have pointed out that industry is not geared to war production. Our industries are peace industries, used to operateing under normal conditions. The change from a peace economy to a war economy is a long and difficult process.

Fifth, the American public is still confused, and does not know exactly where it stands. It doesn't know whom to believe. And concerted public pressure is needed to make any great effort a success.

Whatever the reasons, it is plain that the defense program has fallen on evil days. All authorities are certain that comething drastic must be done-but many of the

is more impressive?

First impressions count. Good, bad or Indifferent, they're hard to change. So it pays to make good first impressions.

Each envelope is your personal messenger, classified instantly by the appearance of your name in the corner. Which is more impressivethree lines of black type on a government stamped envelope, or a "private" envelope with an attractive design that ties in with your letterhead?

Let us figure on your next envelope order and submit some "corner card" ideas. We may be able to save you some money, too.
